

To inquiring media outlets,

January 2017 will begin a new approach to how we highlight people, places and things across Atlanta's Northside and beyond. Our lineup each month will mirror that same philosophy.

In an effort to provide authentic, researched content that is both valuable and entertaining for our readers, we have decided to share only a skeleton of our 2017 Editorial Calendar, rather than a full rundown of features, as we have with public relations partners in the past. We appreciate your patience while we strive for a level of surprise that we know will positively affect our readers as well as advertisers this year.

We are happy to announce that we will actively spend a fair amount of time in the more than 12 communities we proudly call home. Here is a sneak peek at which location we'll cover and which months to expect to see them on our pages.

January - Suwanee/Duluth

February - Cumming

March - Sandy Springs

April - Vinings
